Struggle is a part of everyone's journey: Aishwarya Nigam

By Sonia Arora | THE TIMES OF INDIA

Tags: Salman Khan | Mohd Rafi | Aishwarya Nigam

He started learning the tabla when he was four years old and started singing within the year. So far, he's been training as years pass. Born and brought up in Munger/Bihar, Aishwarya Nigam came to Mumbai in 2008 as an aspiring playback singer.

Though he sang his first song for a Bollywood movie Q Sikandarin Corporate (2006), his big break came in the form of the hit Munni Badmaash Hai in Dabangg (2008).

Like countless singers who struggle to get a break in Bollywood, Aishwarya is no stranger to this rite of passage. "I believe struggle is part of everyone's journey and the same is true for me as well. After five long years of focus, dedication and patience, I got my first big break, but success tastes sweeter after some struggle," he muses.

Besides the legendary late Mohd Rafi, Aishwarya is an ardent listener of Sonu Nigam. Having already worked with a handful of music directors, he wishes to work with all or rather as many music directors because "the amount and quality of experience that they possess is a treasure and I want to explore each of these treasures", he humbly says. He has dubbed for bad boy Salman Khan but believes it's never enough no matter how many times that happens again.

Though soft rock, Bollywood, semi-classical thumris and Sufi are the styles he's comfortable with, the 25-year-old singer loves experimenting with various styles. "I am still in the process of discovering myself and its good to surprise yourself by knowing what all you can do," he adds.

Since there's an influx of so many new singers in Bollywood, what does he think of the growing competition and what's his USP? "Surely, the competition is very tough. There are so many talented singers, but the beauty of the competition is that it always keeps you pushing forward. I do rigor everyday and that is the only way one can be up for this competition. My USP is my varied genre of songs and my soul," he says. His singing projects include upcoming movies like Besharam, Gang Of Ghosts and Gangs Of Gadulde.

This song has been the anthem of Mumbai Indians in IPL this year.

When asked about Ferrari Ki Sawari, he said, "It was an awesome experience working with Vidhu Vinod Chopra production and with music director, Priya. The song Maare is already very popular and I am looking forward to see audience's reaction after seeing it on the big screen."

HIS SHOT to fame with his staging in the Salman Khan in the super-hit track of Maare Aashuwa from Dabangg, Aishwarya Nigam has come a long way. Aishwarya says, "God has been kind to me and my hardwork is being realized by many. It was one of the best dreams fulfilled
